

WHY WE PARTICIPATE

“As a faculty member, I am passionate about our mission and the opportunity we give our students. It’s a pleasure to give back to an institution that changes lives.”

Dr. Richard Hart

“Working in the Student Financial Services area, I assist students every day to help them bridge the gap between what they have and what they need. Scholarship funding is critical, and I’m more than happy to give back to that area and help our students move forward.”

Jamie Shahin

“Through financial help from scholarships and awards in high school, college, and graduate school, I was able to attend the schools of my choice. The financial support and generosity of an earlier generation made all the difference in my life and enabled me to accomplish my goals. I donate to Bloomfield College because it is now time to pass on this gift. The reality is that our students need financial support. The good work that we do as faculty at Bloomfield College will come to naught if our students do not have the financial support to stay in college and complete their education. No matter what the size, a yearly gift or a regular payroll deduction can make a difference.”

Dr. Maryann DiLiberto

“I feel that giving just a small amount from what we have can make a difference in so many students’ lives. I am grateful that I am able to receive benefits and an education for my children. Education is the key to a successful life, so if I can give back through participating in the Employee Giving Campaign I certainly will!”
